TAFT TO GREET PREDECESSOR

Will Go to New York to Welcome Roosevelt.

Affair to Be Non-Political

Demonstration Is to Be Arranged as a National One, With a Central Executive Committee and a Committee on Arrangements Made Up of Friends of the Former President From Each State and Territory.

Washington, Feb. 9.—John A. Stewart, president of the League of Republican Clubs of New York and a close friend of Colonel Roosevelt, has an engagement to see President Taft to learn if it will be entirely agreeable for the president to go to New York on the occasion of the welcome home to be extended to Mr. Roosevelt when he returns.

Mr. Stewart has exchanged cablegrams with Mr. Roosevelt and consulted with some of the friends of the ex-president in New York and has learned that it would be agreeable to him to be received, provided it could be arranged on the day of his arrival in New York.

The demonstration is to be arranged as a national affair, with a central executive committee and a committee on arrangements, made up of friends of the former president from each state and territory.

The initiative will be taken by the Republican club of the city of New York.

"Before Colonel Roosevelt sailed for Africa," said Mr. Stewart, "and while aboard ship, he was asked to permit arrangements to be made for his homecoming, in the way of something like a popular welcome. The former president did not refuse the invitation, but said that he preferred to keep the matter in abeyance for a while.

Received a Favorable Reply.

"About five weeks ago I called at the White House to tell President Taft that, acting for a proposed committee from the Republican club, as well as for those who aboard ship had asked President Roosevelt to accept a reception being given, a cablegram was about to be sent to the former president asking him to permit us to arrange for a national reception to take place on his return. President Taft was the only person to whom it was made known that a favorable reply had been received. Upon the occasion of my first visit to the president he told me to go ahead by all means, and to 'count me in.' Just before calling I received a letter from Colonel Roosevelt, and his cable informed me that he had written at length with regard to the matter of his reception, which he wished to take place the very first day of his arrival.

"In a general way I should say that the welcome will be simple and dignified and no attempt will be made at elaborate display, but rather to afford an opportunity for America to welcome a former president.

"The reception, of course, will be national in its scope and entirely non-political."

BANK'S DEPOSITORS MEET

Decide That Examiner Shall Remain in Charge.

Lakota, N. D., Feb. 9.—Three hundred depositors in the defunct People's State bank met at the court house today to decide by resolution that Bank Examiner Oliver Knudson should remain in charge of the bank pending reorganization. The exact shortage was stated by the bank examiner to be $98,400.88.

In spite of rumors that the meeting would be very demonstrative, nothing sensational developed and business was disposed of quietly.

Seven of the depositors were elected to assist state officials in every manner possible. A definite report of the situation will be made in the near future, when an inventory of property turned over by the alleged defaulting cashier, Floren, and President Rahders has been made. Irregularities date back several years.

The depositors passed a resolution of confidence on the management of the bank by Knudson and his deputies.

Peary Gets Big Check.

New York, Feb. 9.—Before an audience of more than 4,000 persons in the Metropolitan Opera House Commander Robert E. Peary, discoverer of the North pole, was presented with a $10,000 check on behalf of the citizens of New York, but instead of retaining it for himself the commander announced immediately that he would contribute it toward the South pole expedition, as planned by the National Geographic society.

Miki Guilty of Murder.

Grand Forks, N. D., Feb. 9.—In the Miki murder trial, which has been on all week at Grafton, the jury was charged by Judge Kneeshaw and returned a verdict four hours later, finding Miki guilty of murder in the second degree.

FOR THE UPPER MISSISSIPPI

Congress Will appropriate One Million Dollars.

Washington, Feb. 9.—One million dollars will be appropriated by congress at this session for the improvement of the upper Mississippi river. Of this sum one-half will be carried in the sundry civil bill, which will be reported to the house later in the session by Chairman Tawney of the committee on appropriations, and the other half in the rivers and harbors bill, which will be reported this week. It was the original purpose of the house committee on rivers and harbors to recommend an appropriation of $2,000,000 for the upper Mississippi, but it has just been decided that not more than $1,000,000 can be allowed for the purpose.

The rivers and harbors bill is nearing completion and will be reported to the house Thursday or Friday. It will carry authorized expenditures approximating $40,000,000.

In addition a number of surveys will be authorized, among them surveys of proposed improvement projects on Lake Superior.

WILL TEST THE ALLIANCE

Tariff Reformers in England Plan Immediate Action.

London, Feb. 9.—The tariff reformers are determined to put the alliance of the Liberals and Nationalists to the test at the earliest opportunity. They believe that the Irish electors are overwhelmingly in favor of tariff reform and that the Redmondists cannot be depended upon to support a free trade government.

Accordingly, Austen Chamberlain will move an amendment to the address in parliament raising the whole question of the existing financial system in the hope that the Nationalists will either vote against the government or abstain from voting.

KING GUSTAVUS ON ROAD TO RECOVERY

Swedish Ruler May Be Up in a Fortnight.

Stockholm, Feb. 9.—The condition of King Gustavus, who was operated on for appendicitis, is reported as entirely satisfactory. The following official bulletin was issued:

"The king passed a quiet day and slept well. Andonies have been unnecessary. Pulse 56, temperature 98.2. The wound presents no unfavorable symptoms. His majesty's general health is satisfactory."

In discussing the case the surgeons said that the inflammation around the appendix was in a very advanced state and that a few hours' delay in operating might have proved fatal through the breakdown of the organ. When his majesty was informed that an operation was necessary he consented without the slightest hesitation and ordered that all his relatives then in the city should be summoned to his side.

The king was under the influence of the anæsthetic for a little more than an hour. When he was replaced in bed he fell into a gentle sleep and he is now in excellent spirits.

Bulletins of the king's condition will be issued twice daily, at noon and in the evening. The attending physicians say that his majesty will be up again in a fortnight. The regency, under Crown Prince Gustavus Adolf, will continue possibly for three weeks.

CLASSIFICATION OF LANDS

Interior and Agricultural Departments Agree on Plan.

Washington, Feb. 9.—A plan mutually arranged by the interior and agricultural departments, submitted to the president for approval, outlines the general policy to be followed by the forest service and the general land office in determining the lands to be classed within the national forests. Timbered lands, those valuable as a protective forest in regard to irrigation or the water supply of communities and small bodies of lands scattered through the forests, which it is impracticable to eliminate, are the principal areas to be confined within the forest reserves.

SIX NEGROES WERE KILLED

Trouble at Hale's Bar, in Tennessee, Ended.

Chattanooga, Tenn., Feb. 9.—The following message was received from Captain William Burk of the Chattanooga police department, who left with a squad of seven men for Hale's Bar to quell a riot between negro and white laborers:

"Six dead negroes. Trouble all over. Start back in two hours. Got to get breakfast." The trouble started because a negro boss was put over white miners and when the latter refused to work the colored men armed themselves and threatened to exterminate the white miners.

Appropriations for Minnesota.

Washington, Feb. 9.—The senate has passed a bill authorizing a bridge across the Mississippi at Hill City, Aitkin county, and appropriating $25,000 for a new fish cultural station in Northern Minnesota.

COLONEL SWOPE WAS POISONED

According to Testimony Adduced at Inquest.

AFTER TAKING HIS MEDICINE

Aged Millionaire Went into Convulsions and His Death Soon Followed. Physician Declares That One-sixth of a Grain of Strychnine Was Found in a Portion of the Dead Man's Liver.

Kansas City, Feb. 9.—With the testimony of Miss Pearl Keller, a nurse; of Dr. Ludwig Hektoen, of Mrs. Logan H. Swope and of Dr. Frank Hall in the inquest over the body of the late Colonel Swope in Independence, came developments in the mystery of the millionaire's death more startling than any facts heretofore produced.

Miss Keller testified that immediately following the death of Colonel Thomas Moss Hunt, Dr. B. C. Hyde asked her to use her influence with Colonel Swope to have him appointed administrator of the Swope estate. Mr. Hunt had been the administrator.

On the morning of Colonel Swope's death she gave him a three-grain capsule, supposed to contain dyspepsia medicine. She did it at the direction of Dr. Hyde. Twenty minutes later Colonel Swope was in a convulsion. His death soon followed. Five minutes after Colonel Swope's death Dr. Hyde appeared and with Attorney John G. Paxton secured Colonel Swope's will from his vest pocket.

Dr. Hektoen testified that one-sixth of a grain of strychnine was found in one-seventh part of Colonel Swope's liver. He believed there might be a grain in the entire organ. Half a grain would cause death. Traces of strychnine were found in the stomach.

He did not believe the taking of medicine containing strychnine would leave as much as a grain of the poison in the liver.

Told Hyde of His Plan.

Mrs. Swope testified that Dr. Hyde knew of Colonel Swope's intention to give $1,500,000 to charity and of his plan to change his will to this effect. She also says that Colonel Swope had told Dr. Hyde that he had planned to give Thomas Swope the largest part of his estate.

O. H. Gentry, a druggist of Independence, said he prepared the medicine for Colonel Swope, which contained elixir of iron, quinine and strychnine. The strychnine in a teaspoonful amounted to but 180th of a grain, he said.

Dr. Hyde was again present at the inquest and heard every word of the testimony. Especially did he follow the testimony of Miss Keller. But he gave no sign that her narrative perturbed him in the least.

In the tense moments while Miss Keller described the dying actions of Colonel Swope jurors and spectators listened eagerly to every word. She told in detail how she gave the man a capsule and how he passed into a convulsion. While conscious he cried:

"Oh, my God; I wish I had not taken that medicine; I wish that I were dead."

Coroner Zwart asked Dr. Hektoen if it would be possible, in view of the fact that the body of Colonel Swope had been frozen, to have injected strychnine after death so that it would have been diffused through the system. Dr. Hektoen said that it would not.

GUILTY OF MANSLAUGHTER

Jury Convicts William Goff at East Grand Forks, Minn.

Crookston, Minn., Feb. 9.—After being out exactly twelve hours the jury in the case of William Goff, indicted for murder of Mrs. Georgia Bell at East Grand Forks Dec. 2, brought in a verdict of manslaughter in the first degree.

When the verdict was read Goff broke down and cried, thinking the verdict was murder in the first degree, meaning hanging or life imprisonment. It took some time for Sheriff Daniels and Deputy Opheim to quiet him.

When he discovered that his neck was safe he quieted down and remarked, "Well, I can sleep tonight."

Fined for Killing Hunter.

Farmington, Me., Feb. 9.—One of the first sentences imposed since the passage of the statute making it a special criminal offense carelessly to kill a person while hunting was given in the supreme court when Menial Lamb of Rangely was ordered to pay a fine of $400 and costs. Lamb shot and killed his companion, Ralph Coleman, whom he mistook for a deer. Lamb paid.

To Promote Good Roads.

Bemidji, Minn., Feb. 9.—A call has been sent out for the organization of the Northern Minnesota Development association. The main purposes of this body will be to promote the cause of good roads and of reappportionment. It will meet a Bemidji Feb. 16 17 and 18.

PLAYING A STRONG HAND

English Government Involved in the Drake Case.

New York, Feb. 9.—The English government is playing a strong hand in the government case against Syrous M. Drake, the Huntersville, Minn., man accused of using the United States mails to secure money illegally from those he says are descendants and consequently heirs to the $200,000,000 Drake estate in England, the nucleus of which was founded by Sir Francis Drake. Courtenay Bennett, the British consular representative in New York, has informed United States Commissioner Shields, before whom Syrous Drake will be arraigned for further investigation on Feb. 18, that the Drake estate had been settled up in Great Britain many years ago, the crown securing the bulk of the estate.

Drake is still in the Tombs prison in default of $2,000 bail, but the post-office department has been prosecuting a quiet investigation to ascertain just how many persons sent money to Drake on the strength of sharing in the bulky Drake estate. Aside from the three alleged victims enumerated at the first hearing, Fanny Cagle of Hodgenville, Ky.; J. C. Drake of Whitefield, Ky.; and William Miller of Corsicana, Tex., no names have been made public.

Killed by Load of Coal.

Stanley, N. D., Feb. 9.—While walking at the side of a wagon loaded with coal John Soreide of this place was almost instantly killed when the wagon slewed around on a sliding grade. It caught him in such a manner as to pin him underneath the load of coal, which was tipped over.

Hotel Again Damaged.

Iowa City, Ia., Feb. 9.—The Albany hotel was partially destroyed by fire again. The loss was $10,000, insurance partial. Incendiarism is suspected, and the state's attorney is investigating. This was the third fire started in the building in three days.

MORE POWER FOR THE COMMISSION

Senator Cummins Talks on Railroad Corporations.

Chicago, Feb. 9.—"More power to the interstate commerce commission," was urged by United States Senator Albert B. Cummins of Iowa in an address before the Traffic club here.

"I will not try to convince the corporations that they are sound and well, because they are already on the operating table," declared the senator, in opening his remarks. "The surgeon's knife is gleaming all around them. I shall not try to convince them after it is all over they will be stronger, because undue strength is the very disease from which they suffer. But I will try to convince them that after it is over they will be better, longer lived and safer."

"The truth is the hair trimming act was never more required than it is at the present time. I do not suggest that all corporations wear long locks, but I refer to the stalwarts in and among the corporations who are so great that while they are unwilling to shear themselves there isn't anybody big enough to shear them. Uncle Sam has been scissoring away for a great many years. It is quite possible that he has gotten a little close in places, but I believe that after all the corporations wear longer hair than they ever did before.

"There are some gray heads here who remember the days of 1873, 1874 and 1875, that witnessed the first experiments of railroad regulation in Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa and Missouri. Out of that have grown the laws which now attempt to control the business in which you are interested as transporters or as shippers."

After declaring that corporations were a necessity because, for instance, no one man could build a railroad from New York to San Francisco Senator Cummins took up the history of the interstate commerce law, declaring that the law of 1887 was "as useless as a painted ship upon a painted ocean," until amendments to it were adopted in 1906.

M'CUMBER WILL BE A MEMBER

WHAT WIRELESS AMATEURS CLAIM

Declare They Are the Only Real Experimenters.

MEAN TO DEFEND THEIR RIGHTS

Object to Bill For Federal Control of the Air—Say Their Small Instruments Can Send Messages Only a Short Distance—They Blame the Hired Operators.

Alarmed by a resolution introduced in congress on Dec. 17 last calling for the appointment of a board of experts to prepare a comprehensive system of regulations to govern the operation of all wireless plants, the amateur wireless operators are preparing to defend what they consider their rights. The editor of a publication devoted to the interests of the wireless amateur has received 6,000 letters from amateurs protesting against the restriction of wireless rights to government and commercial stations, which they fear will be the outcome of the resolution.

It is on the ground that the wireless has been largely perfected by amateurs that the latter base their claims to consideration. They say that they are the only ones actively interested in experimenting with new apparatus, because they can do so on a small and inexpensive scale.

Individuality in a Spark.

In fact, the amateurs twit the professional wireless men with being behind the times and declare that the much talked of interference with the work of the regulars by amateur senders is very largely a myth. They say that a really good wireless man finds individuality in a spark just as he would in a voice and that just as a man in a crowd where many are speaking can distinguish and understand the words spoken by the particular voice in which he is interested so a good wireless man can concentrate his attention upon the particular message which is meant for his ear. A good operator, say the amateurs, has no difficulty in "reading through" six messages.

Even if this were not so, say the defenders of amateur air line rights, the invention of the "loose couples" or "induction tuner" enables the operator to cut out from his receiver all but the particular message which he wishes to take. The amateurs suggest that the expense of installing really up to date apparatus in the commercial stations may have something to do with the attack.

There are estimated to be about 60,000 amateur wireless stations in the United States. New York has at least 1,000, and the number is growing rapidly. The value of these plants ranges from $10 to what you please, and the business of supplying materials necessary for their construction is a considerable one, so that the amateurs are being marshaled for the fight by the interested dealers.

The "Air Nuisance."

One of these dealers said recently that he had begun the work of supplying wireless apparatus to amateurs in 1904 and that in a way he felt that he was largely responsible for what the regulars have termed the "air nuisance." This man said that to transmit a wireless message sixty miles requires a plant costing at least $37 and that the majority of the amateurs were content with a $10 plant, which, while capable of receiving messages sent within a radius of 200 miles, cannot transmit one more than one or two miles. The ability of the amateur to receive messages sent from long distances of course makes privacy for official messages impossible unless a code is used. The amateurs say, however, that there have been no complaints on this head. They say that a majority of the complaints, aside from those which they believe are inspired by commercial companies seeking a monopoly, come from inefficient commercial or government operators.

One amateur who says that he knows personally twenty-five such operators declares that "not four of the men were able to draw a diagram showing how their instruments were connected up." The amateur says that his professional brother isn't interested in the game and doesn't care to learn and as a cover to his inefficiency blames all his shortcomings on "the innocent amateur whose weak spark cannot, as a rule, be heard half a mile."

As a final plea to be allowed to exist the amateur associations say that the amateur wireless plant is a fine thing to keep boys at home and out of mischief.

Van Hise to Examine Relic.

Madison, Wis., Feb. 9.—As to the genuineness of the Kensington (Minn.) runestone, purporting to show Norsemen penetrated to Minnesota in the year 1362, it has been decided that President Van Hise of the University of Wisconsin shall examine the famous relic and decide upon its age and character.

North Dakota to Serve on Senate Committee.

OPPOSE JOINT INVESTIGATION

Leaders in the Upper House of Congress Evidently Intend to Ignore the Demand of Some Western Members That the High Cost of Living Be Inquired Into by a Joint Committee of Congress.

Washington, Feb. 9.—Senator McCumber of North Dakota, a member of the senate committee on finance and as such one of the framers of the new tariff law, will undoubtedly be named a member of the senate committee that is to be created for the purpose of making an inquiry into the cost of living. This will come up for consideration in the senate when the Lodge resolution reported from the committee on finance will be discussed, and in all probability passed.

Senator Aldrich and other senate leaders evidently intend to ignore the demand of some Western members that this question be inquired into by a joint committee of congress instead of separate committees of the senate and the house as now planned.

A conference of the Republican members of the finance committee which was attended also by Senator Elkins, Senator Crane and Senator Kean, was held, at which the form of the resolution reported by Mr. McCumber was agreed on. While the resolution follows the lines generally of Senator Elkins' resolution, which was the only one pending before the finance committee, it embodies several of the features of Senator McCumber's resolution and includes a part of Senator Lodge's.

Will Bear Elkins' Name.

The resolution will bear the name of Senator Elkins as author. It was reported by Senator McCumber and it is generally understood that Senator Lodge will be chairman of the committee that will conduct the investigation. In this arrangement the conflicting interests represented in the three resolutions on the same subject were brought into harmonious accord.

After the resolution had been reported to the senate by Mr. McCumber he asked that it be referred to the committee to audit and control the contingent expenses, to which the other two resolutions on the subject had been previously referred. Within a few minutes the resolution had been reported back to the senate in exactly the same form that it came from the finance committee. Present consideration was asked for it, but Senator Stone of Missouri objected, saying that he desired to look over the text, and therefore insisted that it go over for a day.

Senator Elkins was very much pleased with the action of the finance committee. Very little change was made in his resolution, which was perhaps the most comprehensive of the three introduced. The changes made in it were entirely agreeable to him.

FOR CONNECTION WITH POOL

Several New York Firms Merit "Severe Condemnation."

New York, Feb. 9.—Several firms merit "severe condemnation" for their connection with the Columbus and Hocking coal and iron pool, whose collapse on Jan. 19 caused three stock exchange failures; but nothing more drastic than this can be found in the wording of the report of the special committee of the exchange, just made public, after an investigation of the fiasco.

The report gives the names of all the participants and the number of shares they subscribed for, and shows that in reality two pools existed. The names mentioned include some of the best known firms doing business on the exchange in addition to Lathrop, Haskins & Co., J. M. Fiske & Co., and Roberts, Hall & Criss, who were forced to suspend by reason of their entanglement in Hocking stock.

McHarg to Get Good Position.

Washington, Feb. 9.—President Taft, upon recommendation of Attorney General Wickersham and Secretary of Interior Ballinger, has approved the contract between Ormsby McHarg, former assistant secretary of commerce and labor, and the Choctaw nation, by which McHarg is to become the Eastern representative of the tribe, at a yearly salary of $12,000 and expenses.

Recorder Zimmerman's Shortage.

East Grand Forks, Minn., Feb. 9.—The final report of the accountants who recently looked over the city books has been filed and it shows that the actual shortage under the regime of Recorder C. M. Zimmerman is $4,917.78.

WEATHER FORECAST
Fair tonight and Thursday, colder.

Governor Eberhart believes in woman's suffrage, but says: "At the same time, I don't think the ballot should be forced upon women as long as a majority of them do not wish it. Let them ask for it first and then give it to them."

Commissioner Walsh says there are two million acres of homestead land yet unclaimed in Minnesota, mostly in the northern part of the state. And still people are going to Canada when the finest opportunity in the world lies at their very door.

Jones, the North Dakota bank wrecker, has been assigned to duty in the federal prison at Leavenworth "such as are usually performed by a chambermaid in a hotel." Andy's new job ought not to grate on his nerve, for he has shown in the past that he can pick up almost anything.

The teachers in the St. Cloud public schools have got to improve their hand writing or be let out at the close of the term, if a resolution passed by the board is enforced. Real good hand writing seems to be a scarce article and some people seem to think it will eventually become a lost art.

The business men of Bemidji and Casa Lake have taken pity on the lumberjacks and come to their aid in order to save them from the lumber companies and shave shops, that they may get the face value of their time checks, according to telegraphic reports. In a good many cases they need guardians after they get the "face value."

A short time ago the department issued an order to the effect that rural carriers would not be permitted to act as census enumerators while officially employed, and now comes an order from Washington stating that the hunting of game while on their routes is also forbidden. Under ordinary circumstances the rural carrier has enough to employ his time during the eight hours in delivering and collecting the mail over the 28 or 30 miles of road he has to travel without any side time to take the census or do very much hunting.

There doesn't seem to be any doubt about the ability of the government to exclude saloons from the so-called Indian country in accordance with the old treaty provisions forbidding the sale of liquor in a considerable portion of Northern Minnesota. A test case was brought by Fred Anderson and a mandate has been received in the federal court at Fergus Falls from the United States Supreme court directing that he be committed to jail for four months and pay a fine of $400, in accordance with the sentence pronounced by the lower court.

If Brainerd trade was given to Brainerd merchants instead of a vast volume of business being diverted to outside concerns, it would mean much to the business interests of the city, and the upbuilding of the best business center in Northern Minnesota, and not to the detriment of the purchaser either. And while the newspapers are not complaining, there is much in the printing line that is given to outside concerns that should stay right at home, for instance, recently a business firm—just think of it, a business firm looking for Brainerd trade—distributed broadcast over the city a hand bill bearing a St. Paul printer's trade mark, asking the people of this city to give them their business. Doesn't look just right, does it, especially when the newspapers are giving their best efforts to build up the town, bring people here by advertising free of cost, the advantages of this locality and thereby add additional customers to the tradesman. Think it over and see if your conclusion does not coincide with ours.

ARGE AUDIENCE LISTENED CLOSELY

t Gardner Hall to Hear Address of Robert J. Martin, of Minneapolis, in Presenting the

hinks that the 22,000 Switchmen Now Involved will be as Firm in Six Months as Now

Gardner hall was filled last evening to hear the address of Robert J. Martin, of Minneapolis, one of the leading officials of the Switchmen's union, who, with President Hawley, as been prominent in every move to bring about a peaceful settlement of the railroads.

The audience comprised men and women from all walks of life who listened with interest to what the speaker had to say. The platform was taken by members of the Trades and Labor Assembly, several of whom gave short addresses preceding Mr. Martin. One of the speakers asserting that the freight was still six weeks behind in its delivery and gave the assertion the names of several firms of the city who had said so.

In introducing himself and his theme, Mr. Martin went into the merits and demerits of the strike, and read from manuscript a mass of correspondence which he said had passed between the general manager's committee and that of the striking switchmen, and stated that every proposition put forth and demanded by the switchmen had been turned down "flat." He denied that the striking switchmen had broken the first contract as none had ever been made since November 30, since the switchmen "first pulled the pin" which tied up the traffic. He gave as the reasons for the switchmen turning down the proposition to place the difficulty into a committee of three, which the Erdman Act demands, one member of which was to be taken from the state railroad commission, one from the government's committee, that in his judgment it was unfair to the switchmen and that very few people knew of its workings.

Mr. Martin said: "If as a result of his committee disagreeing after all he facts in the case have been debated, we are to let the matter go into a circuit court. Should we be dissatisfied with its verdict the matter would be taken to the circuit court of appeals, and then still into a higher court. I ask any lawyer in this audience, who understands the slow procedure of the law courts of this country, if a settlement of the difficulty would come in less than two years? More than this, while the settlement is still in the courts, any man is liable to imprisonment who dares to leave his work, and the switchmen are put off that length of time before a fair adjustment is reached, if ever reached.

In speaking of the demands of the switchmen for an increase in salary, particularly in the northwest, form the facts in the case he thought that the switchmen were amply justified. Mr. Martin, in speaking from experience on this point, said: "I am a switchman. I know whereof I speak on this matter. Very few people know what a switchman's work is. In my honest judgment it takes 12 months of thorough going experience to make a competent switchman. We are exposed to all kinds of weather. The engineer and fireman are protected in their cab, the conductors and other trainmen have their cabooses to shelter them, the flagmen have their little houses for shelter, even the section man has a shelter in the time of storm; but the switchmen have to face all climatic conditions, rain or shine, heat or cold, and dare not run into any place of shelter for fear of damage to property or the humiliating shame of some posing official who, in his dictatorial manner, calls them onto the carpet and hands them 10 or 30 days. I have worn out as many as five pairs of overshoes in one winter, independent of extra clothing that the rough work demands. Once again, 78 per cent of the switchmen of this country are either killed outright or disabled as a result of this dangerous occupation."

In speaking of the demand for "double pay for Sunday and overtime." "All we ask," he said, "that a penalty be placed upon railroads for forcing us to work too many hours. The average price per hour being paid to the switchmen, night and day work, is 34 cents, and I tell you honestly and squarely that it is not enough. We would like to spend Sunday, or a part of it, with our families like other folks." At this point the speaker became a little severe on the clergymen of all denominations who had taken so little interest in the moral side of the Sabbath desecration in this particular. He doubted as to whether the switchmen and other transportation men, who had worked so many years on the Sabbath could repeat accurately the Lord's Prayer. "It is not so, when you are told that the railroads have no control over the employment of so many men on Sunday. Many a time in my work as a switchman in the twin cities, I with hundreds of others have had to spend many a cleaning up Sunday and have been told to take a rest on Monday."

Mr. Martin became quite severe in the matter of the physical examination demanded by the railroads, particularly the age limit. He said that the average life of the switchman was 15 years, and that many a man was in his prime at 35 who had spent his time in that line of work. He scored the doctors who did the examining and said that they were tools of the railroad officials in that they could very easily work in conjunction and let a man out when they wished. He thought that it was inhuman to honest seekers after employment to have men turned down by railroads through the doctors and the same men having been accepted by the United States army, and cited one case that had been brought to the manager's committee in St. Paul.

"We also ask that no man be kept longer than six hours between meals and that is no more than a reasonable request. In many a yard men have been kept too long before they were told by the yard foreman to get a mid-day meal." All this could be easily remedied, he thought, or in part. "We have associations for cruelties to animals, but men do not count with some railroad officials."

In defending the act of the switchmen in striking in their own time and way, he informed the audience that since the railroads did their work in their own way without consulting the switchmen, many times to the detriment of the railroad employees, why should not the same right be given to the switchmen? The N. P. and the G. N. railways have their own agencies at work in Chicago recruiting their forces and working their own selfish ends, we simply demand what we think was only reasonable and when they turned the proposition down we left."

In conclusion, Mr. Martin told of the many public spirited business men of the twin cities, and Gov. Eberhart, and other leading men who had tried to bring about a satisfactory settlement, but claimed that the Managers' Committee had turned a stone wall to them, and to use the speakers words, "they were told to go away back and sit down."

He also claimed that the removal of freight was far from being normal; that many a man who had never swung his feet onto the footboard of a freight engine, or climbed on the top of an icy car, would have a little more charity for switchmen after several months of that kind of work, and having been hauled out of their cosy offices; that not more than one score of 2200 striking switchmen had returned to their old jobs, and that the strikers would be as firm six months from now as they are at present.

LUMBER PLANT BURNED

Little Falls Suffers Loss of Pine Tree Lumber Co's Planing Mill and Lumber Sheds

Little Falls, Minn., Feb. 8.—The Pine Tree Manufacturing company's finished high grade lumber shed and planing mill was destroyed by fire this morning. The fire started in the finished lumber store room, where several thousand feet of moulding and floor lumber were stored, and ate its way through the fire wall into the planing mill, destroying machines.

General Manager C. A. Weyerhaeuser stated that the loss was $20,000, covered by insurance. The loss to the plant is about $10,000 and to the lumber stored in the two sheds, $10,000. About half a million feet of lumber was destroyed. Rebuilding will be begun at once and the planing mill will be running in a few weeks. Supt. I. L. Warren, of the saw mill, sustained a dislocated shoulder while serving a pot of hot coffee to the fire fighters after the blaze was under control. O. Knudson received a cut on the head, inflicted by falling timbers.

VOTE ON SIX AMENDMENTS

Repealing the requirement that the reports of the state treasurer be bound in the same volume as the session laws.

Permitting the state to conduct a hail and tornado insurance.

Permitting the legislature to make a reapportionment at any session following a census.

Providing a one-fifteenth mill tax for reforestation.

Permitting the legislature to exempt timber lands from taxations.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. A Cockney.
Minshen, a cockney maker of London, in 1617 issued a work which gave the following amusing account of the origin of the word "cockney": "A cockney, or cockney, applied only to one born within the sound of the Bow bells—that is, within the city of London—which term came first out of the following tale:
"A citizen's son, riding with his father out of London into the country and being a novice and merely ignorant of how cockney and catel do increase, asked when he heard a horse neigh what the horse did. His father answered, 'The horse doth neigh. Riding further, he heard a cock crow and said, 'Doth the cock neigh too? And therefore cockney, or cockneigh, by inversion thus: Incoctus—i. e. raw or unripe in country-mens affairs.'"

Italian Brigandage In 1843.
One summer evening in the crowded theater an impatient householder demanded the drawing of the curtain preliminary to the first act. When at last it was upraised the Passatore and his armed band occupied the stage, with muskets aimed at the affrighted audience. The chief stated that he should levy a tax per head, which he then and there collected. The gang made out their booty unmolested—Lady Presturch's "Essays."

How often do you eat this food?
A short time ago there appeared in the columns of one of the prominent magazines an article on building brain and muscle by the proper selection of the foods you eat.
A good many people were surprised to find oatmeal placed at the top of the list of foods recommended; but if the article had appeared in an English or Scotch paper every reader would have expected to see first place given to good oatmeal.
As a matter of fact Great Britain and Europe come to us for tremendous quantities of Quaker Oats because it represents to them perfect food, being the richest in flavor and best in cleanliness and purity, of all oatmeals.
Americans should eat more Quaker Oats; the results would soon show themselves in improved conditions of health and strength.

To School by Air Tube.
"Fifty years from now there will be no schools in Chicago," said Architect Dwight H. Perkins of the Chicago board of education the other day. He meant that conditions in Chicago, particularly transportation, will have changed to such an extent that the schools will be thirty or forty miles beyond the city limits, far from its smoke, dust, dirt and turmoil and close to nature.
"We will shoot the children out through pneumatic tubes every morning into fields, groves and parks to school," was the architect's enthusiastic prophecy. "And in the evening we will shoot them back again."

How to Lose Coughs and Colds

When you feel "plain bum" with a cold there's just one best thing to do about it and that's to get a bottle of Dr. Bell's Pine-Tar-Honey and follow directions.
Your cough will stop almost instantly and every trace of the cold—the full aching head, the sore nose and throat, the stinging eyes, etc., will cease to annoy you very soon.
Dr. Bell's Pine-Tar-Honey is successful because it seeks out and destroys the cause of the cold—the germs.
It heals, cools, soothes and strengthens the irritated parts.
Yet it contains no habit forming drugs whatsoever—mostly real old fashioned pine-tar, honey and other beneficial ingredients that our grandmothers used to fix up for the family cures.
Made by a known scientific process with contents plainly stated on the bottle.
The standard for 20 years. The largest selling cough and cold medicine in the world.
You ought to take some of it now and see how it gets to work on your cold.
Look for our trademark (the bell) and Grassy Metcalfe's picture on every bottle. 25c—50c—$1.00.

A COSTLY TRIFLE.

It Brought Bankruptcy to an English Iron King.

It was a common penny postage stamp that brought Hobart, the great British "iron king," to his ruin. At the time of the Whitworth period, when there was a big crisis in the iron trade, he had agents in all parts of the world who kept him posted. Sometimes they telegraphed news to him in cipher, but those in England were nearly always instructed to write. At that period his principal agent, who was also his chief partner, was in Sheffield and wrote him from there warning him to sell out all iron interests for the time on account of the Whitworth crisis.
Hobart had frequent fits of irritability, and he had been receiving a lot of unstamped letters of no importance on which he had to pay double postage. One morning in anger he gave orders that such letters were to be returned to the postman. The very first unstamped letter received after this was from his partner. It was rejected as soon as it arrived.
Consequently, knowing nothing of the existence of the letter or the all important private news it contained, Hobart pledged himself next day for more iron deals than even his mighty credit was good for. The great drop in prices came two days later, and Hobart, once a millionaire, was involved in a hopeless bankruptcy from which he never recovered.—London Telegraph.

SATOLLI'S HONORS.
Distinguished Prelate First Apostolic Delegate to the United States.
Cardinal Satolli, the distinguished prelate of the Roman Catholic church, was born in Marsciano, archdiocese of Perugia, July 21, 1833. His family was a noble one of very ancient lineage.
His success in difficult research first won for him the regard of his great friend, the late Pope Leo.
Completing his studies, Satolli was assigned to the faculty of the College of the Propaganda and in an unusually short time became professor of theology and philosophy. The work of teaching and the opportunity for study and research appealed strongly to Satolli, and if he had been guided alone by his own inclinations he would have preferred to remain a teacher, but the church had need of him outside of the classroom, and after a few years he was made archbishop of Lepanto and then sent to America by Pope Leo XIII. to represent the Vatican at the Columbia exposition.
He remained as the first apostolic delegate to the United States. The clerical work connected with the administration of the church in America had heretofore been in charge of the propaganda, which has superintendence of all missionary countries. When the Catholic body in a missionary country is of a size to warrant the change the propaganda hands over its powers and duties to that body itself. If the pope has treaty relations with the particular country, as in France, a nuncio from Rome resides at the capital, but where no treaty relations exist, as in the United States, the pontiff is represented by a delegation, such as Mgr. Satolli established at Washington.
Just before coming to Washington Archbishop Satolli had been made president of the Academy of Noble Ecclesiastics, one of the greatest positions in the ecclesiastical world of Italy and of the Roman Catholic church. On the heels of this great honor came the appointment of Satolli as apostolic delegate to the United States, and only a comparatively short time after this came the news that Satolli was to be made a cardinal.
He was duly created and proclaimed cardinal Nov. 20, 1885, taking title from St. Maria in Aracoele. After the red hat had been conferred upon him Cardinal Satolli became prefect of the Sacred College of Studies and member of the Congregation of the Propaganda, Oriental Rites and Index.
Among all the offices held by Cardinal Satolli in his long ecclesiastical career the one he recalls with the greatest satisfaction is that of apostolic delegate at Washington. A title not conferred on him by the church, but one which he said to please him very much, is that of the "American cardinal." This title was bestowed on him because of his intense and sincere love for the United States.

THE NEW MAYOR
Based on G.H. Broadhurst's Successful Play
THE MAN OF THE HOUR

CHAPTER VIII.
"I've found out who their fourteenth man is, your honor," whispered Phelan in high excitement.
"It's Roberts—Richard P. Roberts of the Third. He's the alderman that Horrigan's trying to put the Indian sign on. We've got to nail him if we can."
"You're sure it's Roberts?" asked Bennett in the same undertone.
The administration ball was in full swing. Mayor and alderman had changed to meet for a moment in a big, crowded reception foyer just off the ballroom.
"Am I sure it's Roberts?" echoed Phelan. "Am I sure? Chesty Dick Horrigan is crooked. I've got the facts down straight. Then secret service chaps of mine!"
"If they get Roberts they will be able to pass the bill!"
"They ain't goin' to get him if Jimmy Phelan's hand don't turn out to be all deuces an' trumps. An'—"
"Keep an eye on him and don't let him go away without my knowing it. I must see him tonight and learn positively how he stands in regard to the matter. He has a reputation for being honest. If only!"
"Here's Alwyn, Mrs. Bennett," came Perry Walnwright's voice from the doorway. "In here. Say, your honor, your honorable honor's honored mother has been looking everywhere for you. And now that I've reunited the long lost mayor and his anxious mamma I'll chase off and find my partner for the next wait. I wish it was Cynthia. Ever dance with Cynthia. Alwyn? Poetry of motion and all that. Like a swan or—oh, good evening alderman. I didn't see you? Are you dancing tonight?"
"Dance?" repeated Phelan in high disgust. "Do I look it? It's bad enough to be harnessed into this open faced suit that feels like I was going to slip through it every minute, without tryin' to dance too. At a show of this kind I feel like a pair of yellow shoes at a funeral. So long, your honor. Even, Mrs. Bennett. There's the music startin', son," he added to Perry as he started for the ballroom.

"I heard it," said the lad, "but I'm in no wild hurry."
"Thought you said you had a partner to look up."
"I have—one of Judge Newman's daughters. Ever see her? I thought not or you wouldn't have wondered why I wasn't in a hurry. Better late than—"
"Are you having a good time, mother?" Bennett was asking the little old lady as he found a seat for her.
"Yes," she answered. "Aren't you?"
"Of course I am. Why do you ask?"
The foyer was thinning out as people trooped to the ballroom. For the moment mother and son were alone together.
"You aren't having a good time, Alwyn," she contradicted gently. "You're unhappy about something. Tell me."
"Nonsense!" he denied, with a forced laugh. "I—"
"You are thinking of Dallas, my boy. Is anything wrong between you and her?" What has happened?"
"Nothing," he answered sullenly. But the mother was not content. Her heart ached for the grief her son was trying to hide.
"Something has happened, Alwyn," she declared, "and I want to know what, so that I can help you. You love her. And that day she came back from Europe I felt sure she loved you. What is holding you two apart?"
"Nothing that can be helped."
"But you never go to see her or—"
"How can I? You know my attitude toward her uncle. How can I call on her while she is in his house? I exposed his relations toward the Borough Street railway franchise bill. I am fighting him and his iniquitous bill with every means in my power! Dallas lives!"
"I hadn't thought of that. You poor boy! But surely—"
"And something more. Her money and Perry's are invested in Borough stocks. By betting that bill I seem outwardly to be willfully wrecking their fortune. I told you the plan I arranged with Perry to avert this, but she doesn't know of that. And—"

CEYLON MENUS.
The Way Natives Wrestle With the English Language.
A writer in the Epicure tells of several menus with which he was confronted when traveling in Ceylon. The menu, he says, is an indispensable adjunct to a respectable luncheon or dinner table in Ceylon. As a rule, the head servant writes it out and from his elementary knowledge of English as "she is wrote" springs a host of quaint blunders. At the same time his fertile oriental brain is ever apt to add footnotes, which are perhaps his happiest achievement.
At one lunch there figured among the dishes "roast beef," but it caused the hostess some consternation when she discovered the additional legend in very small letters, "roast beef, smelling a little," the parenthetical note being meant to intimate that the dish was accompanied by a sauce of savory odors.
On another occasion there appeared this following acknowledgment of deficiency: "Steak and kidney pie; no kidney."
It was altogether delightful, continues the writer, to find at one dinner our old friend Welsh rabbit appearing as "Welsh rubbish." The same genius translated haricot mutton into "hurrydy mutton." Our own boy, he adds, on the occasion of a hastily improvised dinner, was unable to accomplish a dessert. Consequently he put the word "plates" at the end of the menu.

MUSEUM WHERE CARSON DIED

Daughters of American Revolution to Honor His Memory.
Work of restoring the ancient, tumble-down building at old Fort Lyons, Colo., now the United States naval sanitarium, where Kit Carson, greatest of western scouts, died, has been commenced, and within the next few months it will be turned over to the Daughters of the American Revolution of Colorado for a museum.
The restoration will bring it back to its original condition in practically every detail and give to the state one of the most historic landmarks which it possesses.
It is an old stone house, warped and weather beaten, but in such condition that it can easily be restored. It stands almost in the center of the big group of buildings at the naval sanitarium.
It is quite likely that when the restoration is completed it will be dedicated with appropriate ceremony by the Daughters. Already an effort is on foot to collect relics of Carson's day, particularly articles belonging to him personally, and a pistol and instand have been secured as a nucleus.
Originally the little old stone building was the medical headquarters of the fort, and Carson had been taken there from his home at Boggsville, some miles from Lyons, a very sick man. The only persons with him when he died were Dr. Tilton, medical officer of the post; First Sergeant Luke Cahill and a hospital steward whose name is now forgotten, and of this trio the only one living is Luke Cahill, a resident of Las Animas, Colo.
